In partnership with

Conservation without Frontiers:

Historic Buildings of Armagh & Monaghan in Context

For the first time the Ulster Architectural Heritage Society and the Irish Georgian Society are coming together to provide a three day cross border summer school on the 25th - 27th June 2015.

Irish Georgian Society

In its first year the joint Ulster Architectural Heritage Society and Irish Georgian Society Conservation without Frontiers summer school will bring together students, enthusiasts and practitioners to explore, discuss and debate issues relating to our shared Irish heritage in the context of Armagh and Monaghan.

A key theme of the event is conservation and regeneration for community benefit which will demonstrate the critical importance of built heritage in maintaining the distinctive qualities of the region and supporting the growth of tourism, economic development and prosperity. The school will provide a platform to showcase the best that both counties have to offer in terms of their history and heritage. Leaders will include well known academics, architectural historians, architects, planners, conservation and heritage officers. The support of both councils will also reinforce the positive developing relationship between them and our respective organisations.

Summer school director: Kevin V. Mulligan, author of The Buildings of Ireland - South Ulster (2013)
